THE TWITTER FILES

AFTER PURCHASING TWITTER in October 2022 and taking the company private, Elon Musk enacted a series of changes including the release of the so-called Twitter files. The files, which were provided to select journalists, shed light on the company's past dealings with governments and other organizations including requests for the censoring of content and accounts.

Three journalists and authors were allowed by Musk to query the company's internal files for responsive documents, such as emails and internal messages. The journalists could then take pictures or screenshots of the files.
