

SESSION OF 2014

SUPPLEMENTAL NOTE ON HOUSE BILL NO. 2487

As Amended by House Committee on Utilities and Telecommunications

Brief*

HB 2487 would make several changes to current law regarding issuance of certificates of public convenience by the Kansas Corporation Commission (KCC). The bill would do the following:

- Clarify that entities seeking to construct electric transmission lines in Kansas must obtain a certificate of public convenience and necessity prior to transacting business;
- Extend the time frame for the KCC to issue a decision on a common carrier or public utility's application for mergers and acquisitions from 180 days to 300 days, with provisions for a mutually agreed upon waiver or extension of the time period;
- Direct the KCC to expeditiously process every common carrier or public utility's application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity; and
- Modify the term "certificate of public convenience" in KSA 66-131 to read "certificate of public convenience and necessity".

Background

At the hearing in the House Committee on Utilities and Telecommunications, a representative of the KCC testified in support of the bill, and the Citizens' Utility Ratepayer Board (CURB) submitted written testimony in support of the bill. Supporters indicated the KCC may need more than 180 days to render a decision on complex cases. The KCC representative proposed amendments to the bill that would retain the 180-day limit on decisions regarding issuance of a transmission-only certificate of public convenience and necessity, and replace the phrase "certificate of public convenience" in KSA 66-131 with "certificate of public convenience and necessity". The representative indicated this would be consistent with language used in other KCC statutes and Kansas case law.

A representative of ITC Great Plains, an independent transmission company, testified in opposition to the bill, as introduced. He stated that eliminating the 180-day limit for issuing a certificate of convenience for transmission-only utilities could create uncertainty in the regulatory process and potentially delay needed projects. ITC suggested decisions on mergers and acquisitions be subject to a longer time limit, such as 270 days with provisions for a mutually agreed upon extension, to retain regulatory certainty but allow more time for these often complex transactions.

The House Committee on Utilities and Telecommunications amended the bill to retain the 180-day time limit for decisions on transmission-only certificates of public convenience, to insert a requirement for the KCC to issue a decision on mergers and acquisitions within 300 days and to modify language in a statute governing the transaction of business in Kansas and certificate of public convenience to read "certificate of public convenience and necessity".

The fiscal note submitted by the Division of the Budget stated passage of the bill, as introduced, would have no fiscal effect for the KCC.
