To whom this may concern,

My name is Jessica Ajibolade and I've been working travel nursing agency since 2019. I began this journey after working full time for a facility that was constantly short handed before they utilized agency. I've experienced both positions and can honestly say, our residents would not have received adequate care without the help of agency. In my humble opinion, it would be a disaster if agency were to no longer assist facilities in this time of crisis. Our residents and staff deserve better and that means keeping agency and not capping their wages is the best decision for all involved.

Thank you for your time,

Jessica Ajibolade
