(f) If a majority of the votes cast and counted on the proposition is in favor of the nonpartisan method of selection or against election of judges of the district court, the provisions of this act shall govern the selection and retention of judges of the district court in the judicial district, notwithstanding any other law providing for the election of judges of the district court, until such time as the proposition of the method of selection of the judges of the district court is resubmitted to the voters of the judicial district and a different method of selection is approved by the voters as provided by this section. (g) Except as provided in subsection (b), when the proposition of the method of selecting judges of the district court is submitted to the electors in a judicial district in 1984 or in any subsequent year, such proposition may be resubmitted to the electors in the judicial district not more often than once every eight years thereafter, whenever there shall be submitted to the secretary of state a petition signed by qualified electors of the judicial district, equal in number to not less than 5% of the electors of the judicial district who voted for the office of secretary of state at the last preceding general election. In such event, the secretary of state shall cause the appropriate proposition as stated in subsection (c) or (d) to be placed on the ballot at the next succeeding general election in an even-numbered year which occurs more than 90 days after the date such petition is filed with the secretary of state.
