

2012 Kansas Statutes

32-1010. Threatened species. Except as otherwise specifically provided in K.S.A. 32-961 or in a special permit issued under K.S.A. 32-961 or in any rules and regulations adopted pursuant to K.S.A. 32-961, the intentional taking of any threatened species indigenous to this state, which has been determined by the secretary to be a threatened species in this state and is included in a list of such threatened species adopted pursuant to K.S.A. 32-960, shall constitute unlawful taking of a threatened species.

History: L. 1975, ch. 221, § 8; L. 1989, ch. 118, § 121; July 1.